On behalf of the Grad LingSoc Officers, I want to wish us all a Happy and Healthy New Year! We hope the winter holidays have left you refreshed, rejuvenated, and ready for another great semester. As we enter a new year, let us continue to support and encourage one another and share in each other's successes and accomplishments. Regardless of your particular subfield or research focus, we all benefit from social exchange, camaraderie, collaboration, and diverse outside perspectives. Join us this semester at our social and professional events, get to know your current colleagues and future collaborators, and make our graduate program more active in the academic and local communities.

Please let us know if you have any ideas or concerns that will improve our department and our lives as linguistics grad students.

Felicitously,
Marc Matthews

Thursday Seminars

Every semester invited speakers from a multitude of linguistic realms and related studies present their work at Linguistics Thursday seminars. This semester will kick off with a talk by phonologist Michael Kenstowicz (MIT) with his talk The accent of surnames in Kyongsang Korean: A study in analogy.

The talk will take place next Thursday, January 12, at 4:05pm, location TBA.

Individual and group meetings are being planned for Dr. Kenstowicz meeting, so please look for an upcoming email that includes meeting information. There is also a lunch and dinner planned with our guest, and we hope you'll all join us. So, please look for an email that include such lunch and dinner information by next week.

The schedule for this semester is:

- Jan 12 Michael Kenstowicz, MIT
- Feb 9 TBD
- Feb 23 Stefanie Wulff, UF
- Mar 16 TBD
- Apr 13 Akinbiyi Akinlabi, Rutgers University

UF Linguistics Society

From the UF Auditory Cognitive Neuroscience Society:

The 11th Annual Meeting of the Auditory Cognitive Neuroscience Society will be hosted at the University of Florida by the Hearing Research Center. This conference brings top scientists from around the world to discuss the production and perception of complex sounds such as speech, music, animal calls and alarms. The conference is free and open to the public. Presentations on Friday take place in the HPNP auditorium and on Saturday in the Chamber Room at the Reitz Union. Please join us for this great opportunity to discuss the most recent thought and science about the world of sound. If you have any questions, contact Andrew Lotto (alotto@php.ufl.edu).

Grants & Scholarships

*Graduate students who will present their work at a conference are eligible for up to $300 of travel support per academic year through the UF Linguistics Department.

Reading Groups

Keep a look-out for emails regarding reading group meeting times. If interested in the Syntax reading group, contact Robert Smith (r.oxiersmith@ufl.edu) or Zhongyuan Lu (zhongyan.lu@ufl.edu) for more information.
