Overview:

This course will examine the social aspects of phonetic variation, focusing particularly on the relationship between method and theory. Students will be introduced to the field through a survey of contemporary research from variationist sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, experimental phonetics and laboratory phonology. Basic methods for studying the production of different types of phonetic variables including vowels, consonants, tones, voice quality/phonation, and prosody, etc. will be introduced to give students the foundational tools for conducting sociophonetic work. How both sounds and speakers are perceived, and the implications of both inter- and intraspeaker sociophonetic variation for theories of sociolinguistics and phonetics/phonology will also be discussed.

Students will be assessed by 3 essays (2000 words each) summarizing and critically evaluating research articles read in class, 1 in-class presentation of an article of choice and by a research project proposal of the students' design at the end of the semester.

Prerequisite: LIN 3010

Objectives: By the end of this course, students should:

- Be able to examine phonetic variation/change using techniques and theories from sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, experimental phonetics and laboratory phonology.
- Be able to apply acoustic analysis techniques to investigate phonetic variation/change.
- Be able to design a research project on phonetic variation/change suitable for a senior thesis (for under graduate students) or academic conference (for graduate students).

Assessment

	% of course grade
Essays (3)	60%
In-class presentation (1)	10%
Final research design paper	30%

Grading Scale

93–100% = A	90-92.9% = A-	87-89.9% = B+
83-86.9% = B	80.0-82.9% = B-	77-79.9% = C+
73-76.9% = C	70.0-72.9% = C-	67-69.9% = D+
63-66.9% = D	60.0-62.9% = D-	Below 60% = E

Information on current UF grading policies for assigning grade points can be found here. <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/grades-grading-policies/>

Attendance Policy: Class attendance is mandatory. Acceptable reasons for absence from or failure to engage in class can be found here Attendance Policies < University of Florida \(ufl.edu\). In addition, appropriate documentation for absences (except for religious holidays), missed work, or the inability to fully engage in class is required. A warning will be issued after two consecutive weeks of absences. Attendance will be prohibited after four weeks of absences, resulting in a withdrawal recommendation and/or a failing grade for excessive absences.

Late Policy: 10% penalty per day up to 3 days unless you receive permission before the due date. Let me know as soon as you realize you will be unable to meet a deadline. Assignments are collected at the beginning of class on the date they are due.

Accommodations for students with disabilities: Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Dean of Students Office <https://disability.ufl.edu/get-started/>. The Dean of Students Office will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the instructor when requesting accommodation.

Academic honesty: It is expected that all students will adhere to the University of Florida Honor Code and the academic honesty guidelines available at:

https://flexible.dce.ufl.edu/media/flexible_dce_ufl_edu/documents/uf_policy_student_conduct.pdf

The UF Honor Code states that “

Course feedback: Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at <https://gatorevals.ua.ufl.edu/students/>. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via <https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/>. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <https://gatorevals.ua.ufl.edu/public-results/>

Recording: Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.
